Spanish courses

Castila, International School of Spanish and Beckenham Place Park Rovers, a football club in Kent, are organising a summer football camp.

This camp will bring together different youth groups in an international environment with the aim of developing interest in other languages and cultures. This is done through a shared interest, football.

The objective is to bring the experience from London to Andalusia, offering both Spanish and English classes, as well as showing the geographical and cultural environment of Granada and Andalusia. This is done through training sessions, a complementary programme of socio-cultural activities as well as a football tournament.

The coaches and organisers will be both Spanish and English speakers. Training sessions will take place in the target language: the English students will be with Spanish coaches and the Spanish students will be with English coaches.

In addition to the training sessions, included in the proposed activities is a visit to the Los Cármenes stadium, a trip to see a Granada CF (1st Division) training session, tickets to a premier league match, a visit to the Alhambra, a visit to the popular Science Park of Granada, a day at the beach playing volleyball and more.

There will also be other activities to guarantee an international environment, contact with other customs and cultures as well as multilingual communication (in Spanish & English).

Accommodation with a Spanish family

Accommodation will be with families of the Spanish participants in the tournament or in the residence. In order to complete the experience, another similar activity has been organised in London to offer the possibility of the Spanish participants to visit the city. The Spanish students will stay in the homes of the participating students from London. Participating groups: the confirmed participants are a group from the UK and a group from Spain. A third group is also invited (secondary school) from another country: The participating institutions may take part in a single week programme or a programme consisting of more weeks than the duration of the camp, completing it either before or after the football.

Opportunities for cultural exchange and to practise a foreign language:

International communities: there will be two languages of communication, English and Spanish. The organisers and camp trainers will use both languages while taking into account the requirements of each group, by doing different activities in different languages; with accommodation with Spanish families and the exchange between the English coaches and the Spanish coaches, Spanish students and English students, who will then become the host families in England.
